

POWER STEERING STOP LEAK | FAQ

How does it work?

BlueDevil Power Steering Stop Leak is a unique plasticizer for rubber seals. BlueDevil absorbs into the seal to soften, expand & revitalize the size and flexibility to its original condition.

How large of a leak does it repair?

BlueDevil will seal leaks in any fluid systems that are seeping or dripping.

How much do I use?

Add 1/3rd of a bottle to the power steering reservoir.

How long does the repair take?

Start engine and drive vehicle or equipment to let BlueDevil circulate. The repair is sealed while you drive (up to 2 days drive time).

Do I have to change my power steering fluid after I apply BlueDevil?

NO. BlueDevil mixes with the fluid and can stay in the system.

How long will the repair last?

BlueDevil is a permanent repair!

Can I reapply BlueDevil?

YES. BlueDevil does not contain petroleum distillates, which can destroy seals after temporarily expanding them. It is safe to repeat treatment if other seals leak in the future.

Can I use this in my brake system?

NO!
