

Our Unique Features

Our products are designed with all your outdoor adventures in mind. It's why our modular design, rigid core construction, and integrated mounting straps are just three of many unique features you'll only find in DRYSPEC dry bags.

Rigid Core Construction

If you've ever tried to strap a half packed conventional dry bag to a motorcycle or kayak you would know exactly why a rigid dry bag is such a game-changer. And if you're new to dry bags that's even better because you'll never have to experience the frustration of packing, strapping down, and getting in and out of a traditional dry bag.

Strapped to Explore

Conventional dry bags don't come with straps because they are not designed to be mounted to anything. So what do we do? We grab any old bungee or cam strap and crank it down right over the only access to the inside. The beauty of our integrated mounting straps is that you can securely mount our dry bags to just about anything without compromising the accessibility to your gear.

Modular by Design

If you need more capacity with conventional dry bags your only option is to buy a bigger bag. Unfortunately with single compartment dry bags, the bigger the bag the less convenient they are to use. Our D-Series modular packing system features three base bags that can be used independently or connected together to form eight unique multi-compartment waterproof storage solutions.
