RF SERIES ROTARY FORGED

The RF Series Wheels are the latest products in our line to be constructed our new Rotary Forming manufacturing process. This technique employs 3 hydraulic rollers, with pressure and heat, to stretch the barrel of the wheel to the specified diameter. While the wheel spins, the rollers stretch and compress the alloy, enhancing overall structural rigidity and durability of the wheel. This procedure results in a wheel that is not only stronger, but lighter.

The RF Series Wheels are the latest products in our line to be constructed our new Rotary Forming manufacturing process. This technique employs 3 hydraulic rollers, with pressure and heat, to stretch the barrel of the wheel to the specified diameter. While the wheel spins, the rollers stretch and compress the alloy, enhancing overall structural rigidity and durability of the wheel. This method of wheel manufacturing results in a dramatic reduction in weight in a uniform and natural manner.

RFX10

The RFX10 features a complex mesh arrangement which immediately attracts the eye. Its intricate spoke design lightens the wheel but also creates strength in each individual spoke. This allows us to manufacture thinner spokes with equal strength for a lightweight mesh wheel.
